THE GAZETTE.

TUESDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 17.

His Second Courting a Joke. Miss Betsy Howland and Mr. David Basler were engaged to be married in Eikland township, Pa., nine years ago. They were children of well to do farmers, and their acquaintances said it was a good match. Six weeks before the time set for the wedding Miss Howland jilted Mr. Basler and eloped with Mr. Leander Oakford, of Lopez township. They were married by a Forkville justice, and when the fact became known in the runaway bride's neighborhood the gossips asserted that they had felt certain all along that Bets Howland was never really in love with Dave Basier. They also recalled the fact that Mr. Oakford had taken Miss Howland to several country balls, and that she slways edged up toward Mr. Oakward with more fondaces than toward Mr. Basier.

Mr. O. kford took his bride to his home in Lopiz township, and Mr. Basiar went to crinking and became reckies on account of his disappointment. People said be was gcing to the dogs and would probably commit saidle, but in less than three months he oraced up and has never touched a drop of oraced up and has never touched a victor of signor since. He was a hard-working young man and he remained on the farm of his fathor, Mr. D. H. Bis er. No one ever aluded to his disappointment, but he frequently referred to it himself by declaring that he would get even with Bitsy Howland sooner or later.

A year ago last samm r bir. Cakford di d. inl in the fall his widow took her two children to bikkend township, and went to living with her father, Farmer Peter E. Howland. When she had been a widow for nearly a year the old friendship between her and David Basler was renewed. People wondered at it when they recalled what Mr. Basler had said years before about getting even with Bit y Howland, but they wondered still more early in the fall when they heard that the Widow Cakford and Mr. Basler were going to be married in the latter part of October. They still more early in the fall when they heard that the Widow Cak'ord and Mr. Basler were going to be married in the latter part of October. They thought that Dave Basler had forgotten his vow, and that he was so deeply in love with the widow that he coul n't live without her.

The wedding of Mrs. Oakford to the man she had jilted nine years before was announced to take place at the renidence of Mrs. Oakford's father on the evening of Thursday, Cet. 29 All of Mrs. Oakford's Elk'and relatives assembled at the farmhouse soon after dark, and Rev. Charles J. Owen came over from Elkland Centre to perform the ceremony, When S o'clock came Mr. Basler had not arrived. His absence caused a great flurry and much talk, and when it was noticed that none of his relatives was present there was a sensation among the guests. Mrs. Oakford was waiting up stairs, and half an hour after the ceremony was to have begun Rev. Mr. Owen sont a messinger post heste after Mr. Basler. It was more than a mile to the Basler farmhouse, and when the messenger got there all the family were in bed, except the man who was needed to complete the bridal party. He was sitting by the kitchen stove with his working clothes on, and when the messenger made known his errand, Mr. Basler chuckled and said:

"It took a good while to get square with Betsy Howland, but I've paid her back in her own coin. I wouldn't marry her now for the best farm in Pennsylven'a, and you go back and tell her so, she fooled me nine years ago, and turn about is fair play, ain't 1? Maybe she'll learn to take a fooke."

Mr. Basler's message to the wilow was speedily

Mr. Basler's message to the wilow was speedily Mr. Basler's message to the willow was speedily delivered, in their was much indigitation over it at the Howland residence. Roy. Mr. Owen and sympathetic relatives consoled Mr. Owen and sympathetic relatives consoled Mr. Oakford, who wept for two hours over the humi lation, and at midnight the guests departed. From the fact that none of Mr. Basler's relatives put in an appearance, it is supposed that they well know that Mr. Pasler meant to fool the wisow, for the time set for the wedding was known to everybody in the neighborhood. the neighborhood.

Last Friday Mrs. Cakford began a breach of premise auttagainst Mr. Resler, laying damages at $5000. Mr. Easter is 36 years old, and is estimated to be worth $14,000. He says that Mrs. Oakford will never got a cent of his money, and that he put all of his property out of his hands before he got even with her.

"THE BEST OF CHILDREN'S MAGAZINES."

The publishers of Et. Nicholas, that famous young folks' magazine, are effering to send a sample copy, free of charge, to any father or mether who would like to consider the question of taking a childran's magazine during the year to come.

childran's magazine during the year to come.

Everything in it is illustrated.

In 1892 there are to be serial stories by Brander Matthews, Lieutenant Eobert H. Fletcher (the author of that charming book, "Majorie and Her Paps.") Laura E. Richards, William O. Stoddard, Charles E Carryl (the author of "Davy and the Goblin,") and Frances Courtenay Baylor. There will be short stories by Thomas Nelson Page, Mary E. Wilkins, Mary Hallock Foote, Bichard Malcolm Johnston, Octave Thanet, General O. O. Howard, and many others, with papers of travel and adventure by J. T. Trowbildge and Lieutenant Schwatka, and uneful articles on "How Columbus Beckoned," "William the Conqueror," "Volcances and Esrihquakes," "Straight Lines and Circles," etc. In "Strange Corners of Our Country" the Great American Desort, the Cliff. and Circles," etc. In "Strange Corners of Our Country" the Great American Desort, the Clift Dwellings of Arirona, and other interesting places, will be described, and in "Honors to the Flag" and "Boys and the National Guard" the patrictism of the young readers will be aroused and atimulated. Julian Relph is to describe "The Making of a Great Newspaper," and the are and incandescent electric lights are to be clearly explained.

A year's subscription to St. Nicholas makes a splendid Christmas present, for it brings Christmas twolve times a year.
